SECRET GANGS
ADMIT ATTACK
IN JERUSALEMBOMBING KILLS 48;
55 INJURED AND
72 MISSING

BY CARTER L. DAVIDSON
Jerusalem, July 23 (AP)—An announcement purportedly from the Jewish underground Irgun Zvai Leumi declared tonight that "soldiers" of that organization had staged the bomb attack on the King David hotel which killed at least 48 persons and injured 55, with 72 others missing.

The statements, however, blamed the British for the loss of life, declaring the British ignored warnings given by telephone and by explosion of a warning bomb before the Irgun attack against "the conquering government."

The typewritten announcement in Hebrew was delivered to the Associated Press by a messenger boy, in the usual fashion of communications from the underground.

Warning Denied
Military headquarters issued a statement denying that Irgun had given warning of the explosion. "No warning of any kind of the impending explosion was received," the statement said.

A claim by Irgun that the French consulate was warned in advance was denied by a consulate spokesman who said a warning telephone call was received five minutes after the explosion occurred.

As British troops and Palestine police pressed a manhunt through closely-guarded Jerusalem for the attackers, a police source said two more Jews—both of them wounded—were arrested tonight, bringing the number of Jewish suspects in custody to 29.

Diggers Rescue Official
Digging down more than eight feet, troops rescued Donald C. Thompson, 52, assistant to chief of the central British administration, the secretary of the conquering government, and headquarters of the conquering army.

"The attack was carried out with a fight with army patrols and a British police force."

"According to a plan that was thought out beforehand, the explosive was set to go off only half an hour after it was brought into the building."

"Immediately after the explosive was placed, telephonic warnings were given to the main telephone exchange of the King David hotel, to press bureaus, telegraphic agencies, and to the French consulate which were in the vicinity of the hotel."

"In addition to these warnings, a warning bomb (unharmful) was placed in front of the square of the hotel in order to inform residents to remove the public from the surroundings."

"The tragedy was done by the British themselves who paid no attention to the warning and did not evacuate the building accordingly."

POLIO SERIOUS
IN FOUR STATESOutbreak Not Expected To Develop Into
Major Epidemic

BY FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter
Washington, July 23 (AP)—Infantile paralysis cases have been more numerous so far this year than for any comparable period since 1934, but U. S. public health service officials offered hope today that the outbreak would not develop into a major epidemic.

One official who prefers anonymity said that while incidence for the country as a whole is "above normal expectancy" and the number of cases is rather high in many states, "the outbreak can be classed as epidemic only in certain areas of four states."

He listed those states as Florida, Texas, Alabama and Colorado, adding that in the latter, more than half the cases have occurred in Denver.

Up to July 31, there were 2,596 cases throughout the country, compared with 1,679 for the same period last year, 1,752 in 1944 and 1,626 in 1943.

Not since 1934 when the total for a comparable period was 2,695 has the total to July 13 been so high.

"The number of cases is still going up as indicated by week-to-week figures," said the health service man, "but there are some grounds for hope that the current figures will eventually drop below those of 1944 which was classed as a major epidemic year."

In 1944 there were 19,029 cases—second only to the all-time record of 27,363 in 1916.

For the week ended July 13, 428 new cases were reported to the health service, compared with 311 in the preceding week.

Among states which have had more than 100 cases so far this year is Illinois with 102.

Terminal Leave Pay
Approved By Senate;
Cost 2 To 3 Billion

Washington, July 23 (AP)—The Senate tonight passed legislation granting an estimated $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 in terminal leave pay to enlisted men in the armed forces and those already discharged.

The Senate approved the measure on a voice vote and returned it to the House—which had passed a similar bill unanimously—for consideration of changes. The chief of these is a plan, sponsored by President Truman, which provides for most of the payments to be made in bonds instead of cash.

Enlisted men now discharged would receive compensation up to 120 days pay, on the basis of 2 1/2 days leave for each month of service. Officers already are entitled to terminal leave pay.

Before final action, the Senate shouted down two amendments by Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) which would have made it possible for the veterans to get their payments in cash, or in bonds cashable in six months.

The Senate instead provided for making the bulk of the payments in interest-bearing, non-transferable bonds instead of the cash allotments the House had approved.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) protested that the bill calls for "an utterly unjustifiable expenditure of a huge sum." He argued that the GI Bill of Rights provides "liberal" treatment of former servicemen.

"We've come to the time when we cannot continue to spend federal funds in the way proposed here," he said.

He declared that because lieutenants and captains received both terminal pay and mustering out pay, the same "mistake" ought not to be made for all servicemen.

But Senator Knowland (R-Calif.), who served in the army as an enlisted man and officer, declared that GIs are entitled to receive the terminal pay to correct an "inequality" with officers.

BRITONS OPPOSE
RATIONED BREADConsumers Promised
More Sugar, Beer
And Candy

BY ED CREAGH
London, July 23 (AP)—Many Britons refused to buy bread and cakes today, and a deliverymen's strike spread to two more areas and mounting complaints against the three-day-old bread rationing system.

Food Minister John Strachey meanwhile promised consumers more sugar, beer, and candy.

The buyers' strike left an increasing number of bakeries and stores with stale supplies of cakes and bread. Some stores sold them without coupons despite the possibility of legal action against them.

Two groups of British delivery workers at Camberwell and Stamford followed the example of Northern Ireland "roundsmen" and struck in protest against longer work hours caused by having to collect coupons for bread.

Northern Ireland bakers voted unanimously at Belfast tonight not to join the deliverymen in the strike, and one spokesman said "we took the decision because we support the Labor Government. Bread rationing has got to be."

Strachey announced these food and drink increases at a news conference.

Sugar—An extra pound per person during the week beginning Sept. 15. The present ration is half a pound a week.

Candy—Half an ounce a week more beginning Sept. 15, bringing the monthly ration to one pound.

Beer—Larger volume, but the already weak product will become even weaker.

Veteran Gives Up;
Wanted For Killing
Wife And Escort
Norristown, Pa., July 23 (AP)—Kenneth Hazley, 25-year-old war veteran, sought since his wife and escort were shot to death last Tuesday, surrendered to police today without a struggle.

The object of an intensive search in which bloodhounds and a posse participated, Hazley was arrested less than an hour after he stumbled into the home of his parents. His eyes were bloodshot, his feet swollen and he was limping from a gunshot wound in the leg.

Robert Reilly, chief of Norristown police, said tonight that Hazley will be formally charged with homicide in the death of his 22-year-old estranged wife, Helen, and her escort, John Hoffman, 26.

FIVE MISSING
AT LANSING IN
BRIBERY CASEEIGHT DEFENDANTS
SURRENDER, ASK
EXAMINATIONS

BY ROBERTA APPLIGATE

Lansing, July 23 (AP)—All but five of the 24 defendants in the banking bribe conspiracy case had surrendered today to the Ingham county grand jury, following their indictment Saturday.

Two of the missing defendants are out of the country, one has moved to Wisconsin, and Circuit Judge Louis E. Coash, the grand juror, has ordered the state police to arrest the other two and bring them to court for arraignment.

The eight defendants all present or former legislators, who appeared today demanded examination, which was set tentatively for August 1.

Special Prosecutor Richard B. Foster said, however, that the examination would not be held until Charles B. Bohn, president of the board of the Michigan National Bank group and the Bohn Aluminum and Brass Corp., returns to the United States from a tour of South America.

One In Army
Other defendants still sought by the grand jury are former State Senators James A. Burns of Detroit and Robert B. McLaughlin, formerly of Flint, and former Representative Adam W. Sumner of Detroit. Former Representative Walter N. Stockfish was reported to be in army service outside of this country.

Judge Coash said orders had been issued for the arrest of Burns and Sumner, and that the grand jury was trying to reach McLaughlin at his new home in Milwaukee, Wis.

The present and former legislators who surrendered today were State Senator Charles S. Blundy, Detroit Democrat; former State Senators Gilbert H. Isbister, Port Huron Republican, Leo J. Wilkowski and Charles C. Diggs, Detroit Democrats, and former State Representative William C. Stenson, Greenfield Republican, Earl W. McEwen, Sr., Flint Democrat, and Francis J. Nowak and William G. Buckley, Detroit Democrats.

Stenson was brought to court in state police custody because, Foster said, "We thought it was necessary." Wilkowski, Nowak and Buckley already are serving prison sentences following their conviction on previous graft conspiracy charges. All the others were released on $2,500 bond.

Other defendants including officials of the Michigan National Bank surrendered earlier to the warrant, charging they exchanged bribes in an effort to defeat the 1941 anti-branch banking bill.

Representative Raymond J. Snow, Flint Democrat, has pleaded guilty.

Final Vote Blocked
On Tidewater Bill
By Alabama Solon
Washington, July 23 (AP)—Rep. Hobbs (D-Ala.) late today blocked final congressional action on a bill to give states clear title to oil-rich tidelands.

Chairman Sumners (D-Texas) of the house judiciary committee asked the house to agree to a version of the legislation adopted yesterday by the senate 44 to 34.

But when Hobbs announced he had a "vital amendment" to the measure, Speaker Rayburn (D-Texas) asked Sumners to withdraw his request until tomorrow, and he did so.

Hobbs, an opponent of the legislation, told a reporter later his amendment would specify that federal control be retained over all oceanic tideland areas. This would strip the bill of its major provision.

In its present form the measure would apply not only to the shorelands but land covered by navigable streams.

The house earlier passed the bill which the senate amended.

White Is Absolved
By Coroner's Jury
San Diego, Calif., July 23 (AP)—A coroner's jury at an inquest today failed to name George White, 52, New York and Hollywood producer, as the driver of the car that killed a newlywed couple on the highway north of here Saturday night.

The jury of seven men and one woman further held that there was not sufficient evidence produced to prove the driver criminally negligent.

The verdict of a coroner's jury has no legal binding in California.

Pullman Conductors
Vote Strike Aug. 7

Washington, July 23 (AP)—H. W. Fraser, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, said tonight a strike of Pullman system conductors is scheduled for 6 p. m. Aug. 7 because of a dispute over interpretation of wage increases granted in recent arbitration proceedings.

Affecting 2,700 Pullman conductors, the strike will be carried through as scheduled, Fraser said, unless President Truman names an emergency fact-finding board. This action would have the effect of halting the strike for 60 days.

Fraser said Pullman conductors were granted a total wage increase of $1.48 daily in arbitration of the recent railway strike issues.

The union's position, he said, was that Pullman conductors should be granted a monthly increase of 30 times $1.48 but that the Pullman company insisted on dividing the figure by eight and multiplying that by the number of hours a conductor worked in a month.

"While that beats the conductors out of only eight cents a day and $2.40 a month, it changes the formula for determining wage increases for salaried employees which has been in effect for many years and recognized by the carriers," Fraser said.

In Chicago James M. Carry, vice president of the Pullman company said his firm had agreed to submit the issue to arbitration under the railway labor act but that the union refused further arbitration.

Fraser, however, declared: "We have arbitrated it."

Carry said that an 18 1/2 cent hourly increase "or the equivalent thereof expressed in daily, weekly or monthly rates" was accepted "by all other Pullman employees."

He stated that "Meeting the demands of the conductors would mean an hourly increase of 19 1/2 cents which is more than was granted to any other Pullman or railroad employee and beyond the scope of the awards and orders that came out of the arbitration and conferences in the railway wage case."

He said that the working agreement between the Pullman company and its conductors provides a basic work month of 225 hours while the demands would mean computing the increase on a 240-hour monthly basis.

Market analysts said diminished supplies accounted for the boost. House action approving OPA compromise legislation—news of which previously has served to depress prices—occurred after the market's close.

Michael Mann, executive secretary of the Chicago Industrial Union Council, credited a slowdown of purchases with deflating meat prices at the retail level.

Livestock price rises also were felt at some other leading stockyard terminals. Hogs were $1.50 a hundredweight higher at Omaha, Neb.; $1.00 higher at Sioux City, Ia., and Pittsburgh, Pa.; 25 to 75 cents higher at Buffalo, N. Y., and 50 cents higher at Indianapolis, Ind.

Cattle reached $25.00 at St. Louis, Mo.; $22.50 at Pittsburgh, and $22.00 at Indianapolis.

Disabled Veterans
Get Special Autos,
Presented By UAW
Detroit, Mich., July 23 (AP)—Three disabled war veterans will be presented with new specially equipped automobiles at ceremonies here Wednesday noon by the United Automobile Workers, CIO.

In announcing the presentation a UAW spokesman said the action is in line with the union's support of the current campaign to have congress provide all veterans, who have lost the use of their lower limbs, with such specially equipped cars.

Selected by fellow hospital patients, the three recipients are: Pfc. John Murray of Boston, Mass., and Corp. Walter Bernstein of Brooklyn, N. Y., both amputees patients at Percy Jones hospital, Battle Creek; and Lt. Austin Kelly of Brooklyn, N. Y., who is stationed at Cushing General hospital at Framingham, Mass. Kelly is paralyzed from the waist down.

Collision Kills Two Horses At Detroit;
Exercise Boy Hurt
Detroit, July 23 (AP)—Two horses were killed and an exercise boy injured today in an exercise mishap within 24 hours at Detroit fairgrounds.

Track attendants said Lan's Boy, a five-year-old owned by the Davis-Earl stable, was out for his daily workout with Jackie Freels aboard.

As they raced into the club house turn, Carry Me—a three-year-old owned by the Green Acres stock farm—broke away from his handlers and wheeled directly into the path of Lan's Boy.

The horses were injured fatally in the collision, while Freels sustained several fractured ribs.

Seven persons were injured Monday night when Valina Senora, which tossed her rider at the start of the seventh race, crashed into the railing in the stretch.

Lansing, July 23 (AP)—The State Highway Department today asked motorists not to drive over freshly-painted centerlines and lane markings, asserted such action blurred the lines and required costly re-painting.

SENATE WILL RUSH BILL TO
WHITE HOUSEREVIVAL OF PRICE CEILING NEAR,
BACKERS SAY

BY FRANCIS M. LEMAY

Washington, July 23 (AP)—The House passed the new OPA bill 210 to 142 today after assurances from Democratic Leader McCormack (Mass.) that President Truman will sign it.

The Senate plans to take it up tomorrow, with leaders hoping that it may be sent to the White House the same day. With the president's signature, the way would then be open for price ceilings to be restored after a three-week lapse.

In the final House showdown, 157 Democrats, 52 Republicans and one minor party member voted for the bill. Opposing were 119 Republicans, 22 Democrats and one minor party member.

The president meanwhile signed into law a congressional stipulation that no OPA money can be used for "propaganda" in behalf of price controls. The prohibition was put into a bill which cut $26,000,000 off the OPA appropriation for the year, limiting the agency's fund to $75,000,000.

Some Foods Exempted
House opponents of the OPA, shouting that its revival would mean new scarcities and new black markets, put up a last-ditch but losing battle. A motion by Rep. Lea (D-Calif.), which would have stricken everything but rent controls was defeated 220 to 135, with some Republicans supporting the administration.

McCormack told the House Mr. Truman will sign the battered bill, although he vetoed a previous congressional attempt to trim OPA's powers and, moreover, the new compromise measure bans price ceilings on major foods—meat, poultry, eggs, milk, etc.—for at least 30 days.

But it permits immediate restoration of controls on manufactured products, rents, and on foods not specifically exempted.

OPA could roll back to their June 30 levels any rent increases made by landlords since that date. An official told reporters the OPA plans to reestablish the June 30 ceilings in the areas which were under rent controls then.

The new legislation writes formulas for higher prices in many lines, but OPA is given at least 30 days in which to figure these new prices.

The measure creates a three-man control board, superior to OPA, to determine when various items shall be put under controls and when controls should be dropped.

Authority Stripped
Price control is banned under any circumstances before August 20 on meats, dairy products, poultry, eggs, grains, cottonseed and soybeans and food and feed products made from them; tobacco and petroleum and their products.

Other major provisions of the bill include:

Agriculture—OPA is stripped of final authority over price controls on agricultural items, and the power is placed with Secretary of Agriculture Anderson. The control board is superior in determining whether the decontrolled foods are restored to price ceilings.

Manufactured goods—a new formula prescribes that price ceilings must be set high enough for producers, manufacturers and

STAGE ALL SET FOR ATOM BANG

Last-Minute Preparation
Completed In Secrecy
By Task Force

BY HOWARD BLAKESLEE

Aboard U. S. S. Appalachia, Wednesday, July 24. (P)—While a tropical weather front with low clouds and shifting winds swept over the Marshall Islands, joint task force one today went about last minute preparations for the first under water atomic bomb test under strictest wartime secrecy.

(Vice Admiral W. H. P. Bluff, after a conference with his staff of weather officers, ordered the A-bomb to be detonated tomorrow at 8:35 a. m.—4:35 p. m. Central Daylight Time, Wednesday—as scheduled, according to a broadcast heard in San Francisco from ABC Correspondent Clete Roberts.

The Appalachia sailed out of Bikini lagoon at 6 a. m. today, unexpectedly early. Her move was the last step before the start of secret maneuvers in which the bomb is to be put in place for underwater detonation tomorrow.

We sailed past the target fleet of 75 ships in the grey of the morning into a line squall coming up from the south toward the lagoon.

The storm did not close down until we had a last view of the fleet of five battleships, two carriers, three cruisers, 8 submarines, 11 destroyers and other vessels, some of which may be afloat for the last time.

Three Oklahoma Congressmen Lose Election Contests

Oklahoma City, July 23. (P)—Three Democratic congressmen seeking re-nomination were defeated in today's Oklahoma Democratic runoff primary, while Roy Turner, Oklahoma City oil man and rancher, held a lead for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Defeated were Reps. Jed Johnson, Sixth district, Victor Wickersham, Seventh, and Lyle Boren, Fourth, all three have conceded.

Johnson, veteran of 20 years in the house, lost to District Judge Toby Morris of Lawton who was making his fourth race against Johnson.

Wickersham and Boren lost to youthful attorneys and World War II veterans. Wickersham's opponent was Preston E. Peden of Altus, while Boren fell to Glen D. Johnson of Okemah.

Turner maintained a strong lead over Tulsa County Prosecutor Dixie Gilmer in the gubernatorial race. The latest tabulation from 3,200 of 3,701 precincts gave Turner 170,456, Gilmer 139,565.

The race is to succeed Gov. Robert S. Kerr, Democrat, who, under the state constitution, may not succeed himself. Olney F. Flynn, former Tulsa mayor, was nominated by the Republicans in the first primary.

Marshall Continues Efforts To Bring Peace For Chinese

BY HAROLD MILKS

Nanking, July 23 (P)—Bitter fighting, near the point of full scale warfare, was waged by Communist and Nationalist forces in China's midriff today as General George Marshall and the new United States Ambassador John Leighton Stuart conferred at length over an elusive peace.

The chief Communist negotiator, General Chou En-Lai, was expected to return tomorrow to the capital from Shanghai to resume peace talks which broke down when Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek left Nanking's summer heat for Ku-Ling.

Anti-American pressure was rising once more as the negotiators were about to meet.

Marines in north China stations, who sent detachments searching for seven kidnapped comrades, were accused by the Communists of "incubating" Communist-held areas. They were flatly warned that "if conflict occurs," the responsibility will rest with the marines.

Revolt In Bolivia Is Fatal To 1,000; No U. S. Casualties

BY JULIO VALDES

La Paz, Bolivia, July 23 (P)—Bolivians estimated tonight that 1,000 persons were killed and 2,000 wounded in the bloody revolution which resulted Sunday in the slaying of President Gualberto Villarroel and the overturning of his virtually dictatorial regime.

There were no Americans or British among the casualties.

Gen. Enrique Alcoreza, who served as prefect of La Paz under the government of former President Penaranda, was listed as among those wounded. Alcoreza—one of the first to enter the government palace when it was stormed by the revolutionaries—was shot twice with a machinegun.

La Paz was returning to normal. Business houses in the capital have begun to reopen. Only scattered shots were fired last night as police patrolled the city.

There were unconfirmed reports that workers in the mining regions of Bolivia might have gone on strike for higher wages. These reports could not be checked because communication lines were down.

The Hawaiian Islands are classed in Polynesia.

KIM SIGLER

HERE TONIGHT—Kim Sigler, Republican nominee for governor, and his daughter, Madalon, who are on a vacation tour of the Upper Peninsula, will be in Escanaba this evening for an overnight stay. A reception for Sigler will be held starting at 7 o'clock at the Ludington hotel, where a dinner will be served at 8 o'clock. Persons wishing to make reservations for the dinner are asked to notify the hotel by noon today.

Bandit Takes $200 At Stephenson, Is Object Of Search

An armed bandit driving a light car, gray in color, was the object of a state and local police search which was evidenced by blockades at important road junctions last night.

The man, described as being of stocky build, held up and robbed a filling station attendant at Stephenson of $200 at about 10 o'clock in the evening. It was also reported that he held up a motorist who was changing a tire beside the highway south of Stephenson earlier in the evening.

At two o'clock this morning officers had not reported success in their efforts to locate the man.

Optical Firms And Eye Doctors Named For Price Fixing

Chicago, July 23 (P)—Charges of anti-trust violations were filed by the government today against approximately 5,000 eye specialists throughout the nation and two optical wholesale houses and their subsidiaries.

The department of justice filed two civil suits in federal court charging that the doctors and optical houses, through a practice which a government attorney said had been "industry-wide for many years," violated the Sherman act by fixing prices on eyeglasses.

The alleged price fixing, the suits said, was through the device of rebating to the eye doctors approximately half the total price paid by their patients for the glasses.

Willis L. Hotchkiss, special assistant to the attorney general, said the rebates ran into "many millions of dollars each year."

One of the two suits named as defendants Bausch & Lomb, Rochester, N. Y., and four subsidiary companies—Riggs Optical Company—Consolidated of Chicago; Riggs Optical Company, Inc., San Francisco; McIntire, Magee & Brown Co., Philadelphia, and Southeastern Optical Co., Inc., of Richmond, Va.

RICHEST MAN USES OLD CAR

Nizam of Hyderabad Has Billions But Leads Simple Life

BY WALTER MASON

Hyderabad (Deccan), India July 23. (P)—The Nizam of Hyderabad and Berar is known as the richest man in the world—even he does not know his worth—but he wears shabby clothes, rides from palace to palace in an old car, and watches his rupees carefully.

A small, slight, bespectacled gentleman, of bookkeeperish appearance, he so little looks the part of a Moslem potentate that a Madras salesman once scoffed when he strode in and selected a number of automobiles for immediate purchase.

Most estimates of the wealth of the 60-year-old Nizam, absolute ruler for 35 years of more than 16,000,000 persons in a state approximately the size of France (Berar is an honorary title), range around two billion dollars.

However, one source said he had been given a "vague estimate" of 250 billion dollars.

How difficult it might be to set a figure is illustrated by the story told here of the Nizam's experience before the war with a group of European experts called in to appraise his valuables.

He began with a small table full of pearls, black, white and tinted, which brought a figure of about 333 million dollars from the gasping experts.

But when it came time, after much labor, to give a total for the immense wealth jamming his many treasure houses, their answer ran something like this:

"It is impossible to say. If all these jewels were placed on the world market, no gem would be worth anything."

So the Nizam still retains this tremendous hoard, most of it left by his free spending father, as well as his income from extensive private lands, palaces, foreign investments and other holdings.

Income from the lands alone is reliably estimated at $11,000,000 annually.

Yet his wealth is by no means tied up in treasure vaults, nor in lands, palaces or foreign investments. Some of it is in almost priceless heirlooms.

For instance, a cabinet of curious fashioning from precious stones in one palace has been valued at $40,000,000.

The Nizam also is enriched annually by traditional gifts of gold from his people, ranging from one to 25 "Arshafis," specially minted gold coins worth approximately $30 each.

How much the Nizam worries about his riches is illustrated by the story of an engineer who helped work on his vaults. Sent to get several truckloads of gold to be placed in one of the treasure houses, he found the trucks—loaded with kegs of gold—standing in a garden where they had been for several months. Protected only by a tarpaulin.

Economy Of Far East Upset By Red Grabs, Envoy Pauley Reports

Washington, July 23 (P)—Edwin A. Pauley, President Truman's reparations ambassador, said today Russian removals of machinery "incapacitated" $2,000,000,000 worth of industry in Manchuria and upset the economy of the entire far east for a generation.

Pauley, who reported to Mr. Truman yesterday on a 49,000 mile tour of east Asia and Europe, told a news conference also that the United States has considered withholding reparations in Germany to compensate for the Russian removals from Manchuria.

While no decision has been made on this, Pauley indicated it could be accomplished by refusing to deliver to the Russians industries assigned to them in the American zone of occupation in Germany.

In a formal statement, Pauley said that the Potsdam agreement governing German reparations is a "guarantee" against letting the Allies repeat "tragic blunders" which occurred after World War I.

"It is to be hoped," he said, "that no one nation or group of nations will force a renunciation of the Potsdam agreement."

Pauley declared that "we must see to it that the nations of the world do not play the fatal game of power politics with Germany and place her in the position where she can offer the might of Europe to the highest bidder."

Pauley told the reporters that in northern, Russian-occupied Korea, he found that there had been no substantial removals of machinery, in sharp contrast to conditions found in Manchuria which the Russians occupied for a time.

Pauley also disclosed that he is urging top officials here to move at once to have machinery sent by Gen. Douglas MacArthur from Japan to the Manchuria coal fields to save the production of mines threatened with flooding.

He said he had made an urgent recommendation on this point to MacArthur months ago, that Mac-ing to military "specialists" advice, who had taken upon themselves the task of evacuating the bombing area—an area where the slightest touch might bring an explosion.

Disguised As Arabs
A broadcast by another Jewish underground, Haganah, condemned yesterday's bombings, and declared Jews would discard such methods in their continuing fight against British policy.

Police blasted the attack on "Jewish terrorists." Troops cordoned off the old city in their search for the raiders.

(In London, Prime Minister Attlee told the House of Commons that "of all the outrages in Palestine—many and horrible in the past few months—this is the worst," and he added that all information available pointed to Jews as the perpetrators.

(Attlee said Britain would not be deterred by violence in the Holy land from seeking a "just and final solution" to the Palestine problem.

(In Cairo, Abdel Rahman Azam Pasha, secretary general of the Arab league, said that "if such actions were allowed they would encourage the Arabs to violence, which the Arabs are doing their best to prevent." He predicted the attack would harm Jewish chances for concessions from the British and Americans.)

Most of the attackers, police said, wore Arab dress when they invaded the $1,000,000 hotel building yesterday. Police added, however, that the men were heard to speak Hebrew and that all the meager clues to the crime pointed to Jews.

ROCK RESIDENT FATALLY HURT

Frank Niemi, 76, Dies In Hospital Here Of Head Injuries

Frank Niemi, 76, of Rock, died at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon in St. Francis hospital of head injuries believed to have been suffered in a fall yesterday afternoon. Death occurred about one hour and 15 minutes after he was admitted to the hospital.

Deputy Sheriff Emil Johnson, investigating after a telephone call received from Rock at 9:15 a. m. yesterday, said he found Niemi's body in the grass near the Larson store building.

There was an injury to the front and back of Niemi's head, the officer reported. He telephoned for an ambulance and Niemi was rushed to the hospital. Examination was being made yesterday to determine the extent of the head injuries and the cause of death.

According to information received by Deputy Johnson, Niemi had been drinking Monday in a Rock tavern and had fallen there. Recovering consciousness Niemi then went outside, the deputy said he was told. Niemi was seen about 4 p. m. Monday in the grass near the store building and apparently had remained there all night.

Niemi, a resident of the Rock community for many years, was an old age pensioner and was believed to have been born in Finland June 1, 1870. He resided alone about three miles east of Rock.

The body was removed to the Anderson funeral home in preparation for burial. Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

Iron Ore Research Lab Site Undecided

Lshpeming—Snags have been encountered in the effort to locate the Jones and Laughlin ore research laboratory on the Lonsdorf property in Negaunee and there appeared today to be need for considering a change in plans.

Multiple ownership and parceling of this ownership at various stages among a number of persons has made it difficult to get clear title to the property and it also appears some of the owners cannot now be reached. In addition some who owned partial title to it did not file with the register of deeds.

What the next step will be was not known, other than that interested persons were endeavoring to schedule a conference.

The Lonsdorf property had been considered ideal in that it was not too far removed from the city and extension of municipal services would be a nominal item.

Phil Rich To Write Of
His Experiences
In Alaska

By PHIL RICH

Northwest Airlines in Flight—There are five stops on this airline from Chicago to Seattle: Minneapolis-St. Paul; Bismarck, N. D.; Billings and Great Falls, Mont.; and Spokane, Wash.

We sailed into a blue sky today from Chicago. It was a relief to get off the ground as the sun, beating down on the metal plane, produced a torrid, sub-tropic heat. It was nice, also, to get out of the Chicago airport where the ticket office, waiting rooms and restaurant floors were filthy—reminiscent of the worst days in railroad station upkeep. For the amount of traffic handled, this airport is a 1920 model.

The shine boy in the airport reminds an elusive customer that "towels are 5c" but the irate customer snaps back "brought my own."

Our little good looking stewardess, Miss Stella M. Best, says the story goes around that the cockroaches at the Chicago airport are so thick that they meet the bread trucks. If the rolls are not right they send them back to get those with the frosting on top.

Anyhow, they say by September, Chicago's new administration building will be ready at the airport and they can at least move away from the accumulated dirt in the present structure.

At 10 o'clock, we are served coffee and wafers and toast—the Peterson's Ointment also soothes irritated, tired or itchy feet and cracks between toes.

Midland coffee club is in session, says Reardon who is a member in good standing.

One thing about the airlines: They make you feel that they want your business. They want you to have a comfortable trip. From the ticket checkers on, they offer top service. The railroads could learn from them.

A young lady who is an attendant, is having trouble with a chap from Mexico. He can't speak any English and she knows no Spanish. He's been trying to get off at every stop, she says. Finally, in desperation, she says "hey" and beckons him to follow her. She puts him in a seat at the airport to await the Detroit plane. "If he'll only stay there," she sighs.

Capt. J. S. Louett drops by to gab with us after Reardon had loaned him his nine-power field glasses to try to identify a private plane that is paralleling our course. He has flown extensively in Alaska and especially knows the Kenai where I hunted bears in 1939. "We've seen lots of bears and moose up there," he avows. "And also many interesting people. For instance, there was the Eskimo woman at Nome who, though bald, wears a bright red wig." He was up there during the war.

We grind along here at 170 miles an hour, flying at 4,500 feet above the earth. We see fluffy cotton-like clouds below us. This is a two-motored DC-3 job, about the same as the PCA airliners visiting Michigan and carrying 21 passengers.

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Phil Rich, editor of the Midland Daily News, is taking an airplane trip to Alaska, and will write of his experiences for the Escanaba Daily Press and other Michigan newspapers.)

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

Iron Mountain—Lightning had a field day early yesterday afternoon during a brief, but violent electrical storm, two houses in Iron Mountain and one in Twin Falls, and causing momentary disruption of electrical service with a "near-miss" at the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company plant at Twin Falls.

Most damage was done at the Colonial theatre where lightning leveled the upper 10-foot structure of the chimney at the rear of the building. The bricks crashed into a vacant lot, without further damage. During week days, the lot is used as a parking space for a half dozen cars.

Attempt at Whitewash

THE Pearl Harbor reports of the congressional committee have been filed, and as expected, they followed a partisan line, with the Democratic-controlled majority report painting a whitewash for administration officials.

The one clear-cut decision of both the majority and minority reports is that the military commanders in Hawaii were guilty of errors in judgment, a conclusion that the public had reached long ago.

The attempt by the Democratic report to absolve Washington officials, particularly the late President Roosevelt, of any responsibility for the astounding defeat at Pearl Harbor hardly squares with the facts that were disclosed in the various inquiries that have been conducted.

The testimony revealed, for instance, that Washington officials were better informed concerning the status of affairs between the United States and Japan than were the military commanders at Hawaii. Moreover, they knew that Lt. General Short, the army commander at Pearl Harbor, had alerted his command only against sabotage and not against a possible full-scale enemy air attack.

General Short, of course, was wrong in not preparing for any eventuality, particularly the possibility of war itself, but Washington officials obviously also were wrong in their failure to demand more elaborate precautions at Pearl Harbor, knowing as they did that the situation was explosive and that the probability of war existed.

It is not reasonable to completely exonerate from any responsibility for the Pearl Harbor disaster the man who as commander in chief of the armed forces, the president of the United States, was constitutionally charged with the defense of the nation. This is particularly true in view of the extremely close relationship that President Roosevelt had always maintained with the military forces and his own previous experiences as assistant secretary of the navy.

Improvement in U. P.

THE United States Employment Service, in its monthly summary of labor conditions, reports that employment increased in the Upper Peninsula by 39.9 per cent during the one-month period from May 15 to June 15.

But the report points out, there are still 13,500 unemployed, about 75 per cent being war veterans. At the same time, however, there were about 1,000 jobs open, most of them being in the logging and mining industries, which apparently were not the types of employment sought by the jobless.

The employment picture was somewhat different in Delta county, where there was reported to be a decline in the number of jobs offered. The Employment Service ventures the prediction that local labor demand will not absorb available labor supply in Delta county. There are now 1,580 persons, 1250 of whom are veterans, listed as seeking employment.

In time, there should be a substantial reduction of the number of jobless in Delta county. Many of the war veterans, now drawing unemployment benefits, are waiting an opportunity to enroll at some trade school, college or university. Others are looking for jobs to their liking.

Escanaba industries have possibilities for greater employment in the future. A construction company, engaged in expansion work at the Escanaba Paper company's mill at Groos, has been advertising for laborers, and when this project is completed it is expected that the paper industry will employ upwards of 100 additional persons. Escanaba's newer industries also are prepared to employ more help as soon as they can obtain more raw materials, particularly lumber and plywood. Residential and commercial construction also promises more jobs, and old and new business and service establishments will provide increased employment when they can obtain goods to sell to consumers. Once production gets under way throughout the country, Escanaba and the rest of Delta county will share in the large amount of business and employment that is certainly to be created.

Unrest in Palestine

ABOUT one hundred persons, including British and Palestine officers, were killed in the bombing of Jerusalem's King David hotel, used as headquarters by the British army. The incident is another of a long series of disorders in the British-Jewish-Arab controversy.

British policy in Palestine is receiving vigorous condemnation in some quarters. Britain's presence there is the result of Allenby's liberation of Palestine in World War I. The situation was somewhat comparable to our own conquest and later administration of Japan within the past year.

But Britain inherited an old and explosive problem. Palestine is homeland and holy land to Arabs as well as Jews. This fact was recognized in the oft-cited Balfour Declaration of 1917, which, while tating Britain's support of Jewish settlement in the national homeland, specified that this should not prejudice the rights of Palestine's non-Jewish residents.

To most of us, Palestine seems the logical place for a settlement of Jewish survivors of Hitlerism. But that plan does not seem logical to the Arab world. In fact, it seems so illogical that its leaders, in politely diplomatic words, have unmistakably threatened a large-scale war of opposition in which they would seek to invoke Russian aid.

So, among other things, Britain is desperately trying to avoid another war. Meanwhile, our government has stood at a safe distance and offered prudent advice, without committing itself in any way to its fulfillment. Many of our citizens have called the British government hard names, but none has come up with a feasible plan for handling the over-all situation any better.

Forest Conservation

THE recommendation of the American Forestry association for a nationwide campaign designed to enlighten the public to the importance of forest resources is a worthwhile suggestion in view of the rapid dissipation of the nation's forest lands.

Michigan foresters and scientists are investigating means of reducing lumber wastes, which constitute as much as 50 percent of the standing tree. Means of promoting use of low grade wood for the manufacture of many forest products also are included in the study.

The nationwide publicity campaign can be beneficial by pointing out the need for conservation in our forest resources and by public encouragement of sound forest management practices.

Ways and means of creating utilization of the lumber and timber resources must be found to guarantee continuance of an industry that is estimated to be worth $200,000,000 a year in Michigan alone.

IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST (Ironwood Globe)

Uncle Sam is getting set for liquidation of Ironwood Homesteads by sale of the 119 dwelling units making up the community. In so doing, the federal government is continuing the policy, laid down by Congress and already carried out in a number of other similar "resettlement" projects, of getting out of the housing business.

One of the first things the government ought to do in this process is to deed to Ironwood township the Homesteads community building, for use as a town hall and community center, and also the sewage disposal system and plant and the water distribution system.

The government is responsible for the presence in the township of this community. In disposing of the dwellings, it is certain that the federal government is going to have to write off a considerable part of the cost as a loss. No figures have even been revealed as to the total investment of public funds in the project, but it probably amounts to several millions of dollars.

The minimum cost to the government of individual houses has been variously estimated at from $6,000 to $10,000, but rents charged have come nowhere near representing a return on that kind of investment. Actually, rents have been at a figure virtually amounting to a subsidy for the occupants.

The government has made an annual payment in lieu of taxes for services furnished by the township and county, such as fire and police protection, schools, highways, and public health protection. Now these and other problems of municipal administration will be dumped directly into the lap of township and the new owners will have to pay their share of taxes.

There is no reason why the township should be required to expend tax funds to acquire the sewage and water systems, which it must have to continue service to the community. These installations have already been paid for by public funds.

From Mrs. W. G. P., Wauwatosa: In the recent best seller, "A Lion is in the Streets," the main character makes frequent references to himself as a "dictating" man. Will you please explain?

A. Dictating is from dictate, "to wink." The character, therefore, is a "winking" man.

From W. E. C. Y., Washington: You stated recently that the word denier is "a French loanword," pronounced in French as dun-YAY, and customarily in English as "dee-NEAR." Colby, you're wrong! The word denier is Italian, not French, and the usual English pronunciation is: DEN-ey-er.

A. Sorry, my dictionaries, including the French Larousse, list denier as a French word derived from the Latin denarius, an ancient coin of Rome. The pronunciation given by me are in accordance with dictionary consensus, although variant pronunciations may be more or less current in industries having to do with silk and yarn. If so, however, they have not yet received dictionary sanction.

Washington — Information in the possession of the Mead Investigating committee is likely to lead the current inquiry in a new direction which will develop a phase of the congressional influence business with even more unpleasant implications than that already aired.

This concerns the use of influence on Capitol Hill to get commissions in the army for relatives and friends of contractors with fat war contracts. Mead committee investigators have been told that this was a kind of sideline of the Garsson empire.

Childs

There have long been rumors about the generous way in which commissions were tossed out by the war department to the "right people." A thorough investigation should develop facts that might help in another war to prevent the wholesale creation of majors and colonels who did not deserve such commissions and who contributed nothing, or less than nothing to the war effort.

—KOW-TOWED TO GENERALS—

It is significant, in this connection, that Representative Andrew Jackson May was always so willing as chairman of the House Military Affairs committee, to do the bidding of the generals. When the senate atomic control bill first came to his committee, May started the move that resulted finally in the debacle on the house floor when isolationist Republicans, with the aid of Democrats such as Representative Rankin of Mississippi, tried to cut it to pieces. And they succeeded in undoing much of the patient work of the senate atomic committee, which may or may not be rectified when members of the two houses meet in conference this week.

As the hearing wears on in the marble and crystal splendor of the caucus room in the senate office building, you can fairly hear the crackle of politics, like static, in the background. For several weeks before the investigation began, most congressmen knew through the channels of gossip what was likely to be disclosed.

Republicans were elated. They saw in this wartime scandal, and others still in the rumor stage, first-rate campaign ammunition. Nor were they eager to press at this time for a public investigation.

—FERGUSON HAS DATA—

Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan, a member of the Mead committee, made his reputation as a prosecutor. He had a very complete docket on the Garsson-May story before a word of testimony was taken. Ferguson has played closely with certain generals and with Republicans in high civilian offices in the war department. His knowledge is extensive.

Even if Chairman James M. Mead had wanted to postpone the current inquiry until after the elections this fall, he would have had no choice. To have waited would have given the opposition a chance to dribble out the information during the campaign this fall. That would have been more telling in its political effect than the present frank facing up to sordid facts.

If Mead runs for governor of New York in the fall against Thomas E. Dewey, as now seems likely, he will have a tough race on his hands. But he will be stronger as a fearless investigator who did not hesitate to press charges that hit a member of his own party.

—TAXPAYERS FOOTED BILL—

The way the story is being played in newspapers opposed to the Truman administration makes the political motivation pretty obvious. It is shocking that we, as taxpayers, should have to foot the bill for the lavish parties given by the Garssons to flatter themselves and the generals and congressmen foolish enough to attend those parties.

But the cost of those parties was merely a postage stamp in comparison with the money spent by large and respectable firms on the same kind of entertainment, ordinarily tax deductible under our income tax law. Until the war shipping administration belatedly put a stop to it, the big shipbuilding companies gave lush parties at every ship launching. Diamond bracelets were presented, at government expense, to the ladies who launched and sponsored the ships while their influential husbands looked on approvingly.

What the final impact will be on May's own career is difficult to say. Reports from his district indicate that the unhappy parochialism of the isolated and impoverished areas of the south may work in his aid. This sets up a defense reaction around the person attacked by "outsiders" and "foreigners." It is apparently what happened in the Georgia election where, thanks to the county unit rule, Gene Talmadge could exploit the carpet-bag theme while, at the same time, big chunks of money from the north were being secretly sent into the state to insure Talmadge's election regardless of the popular majority.

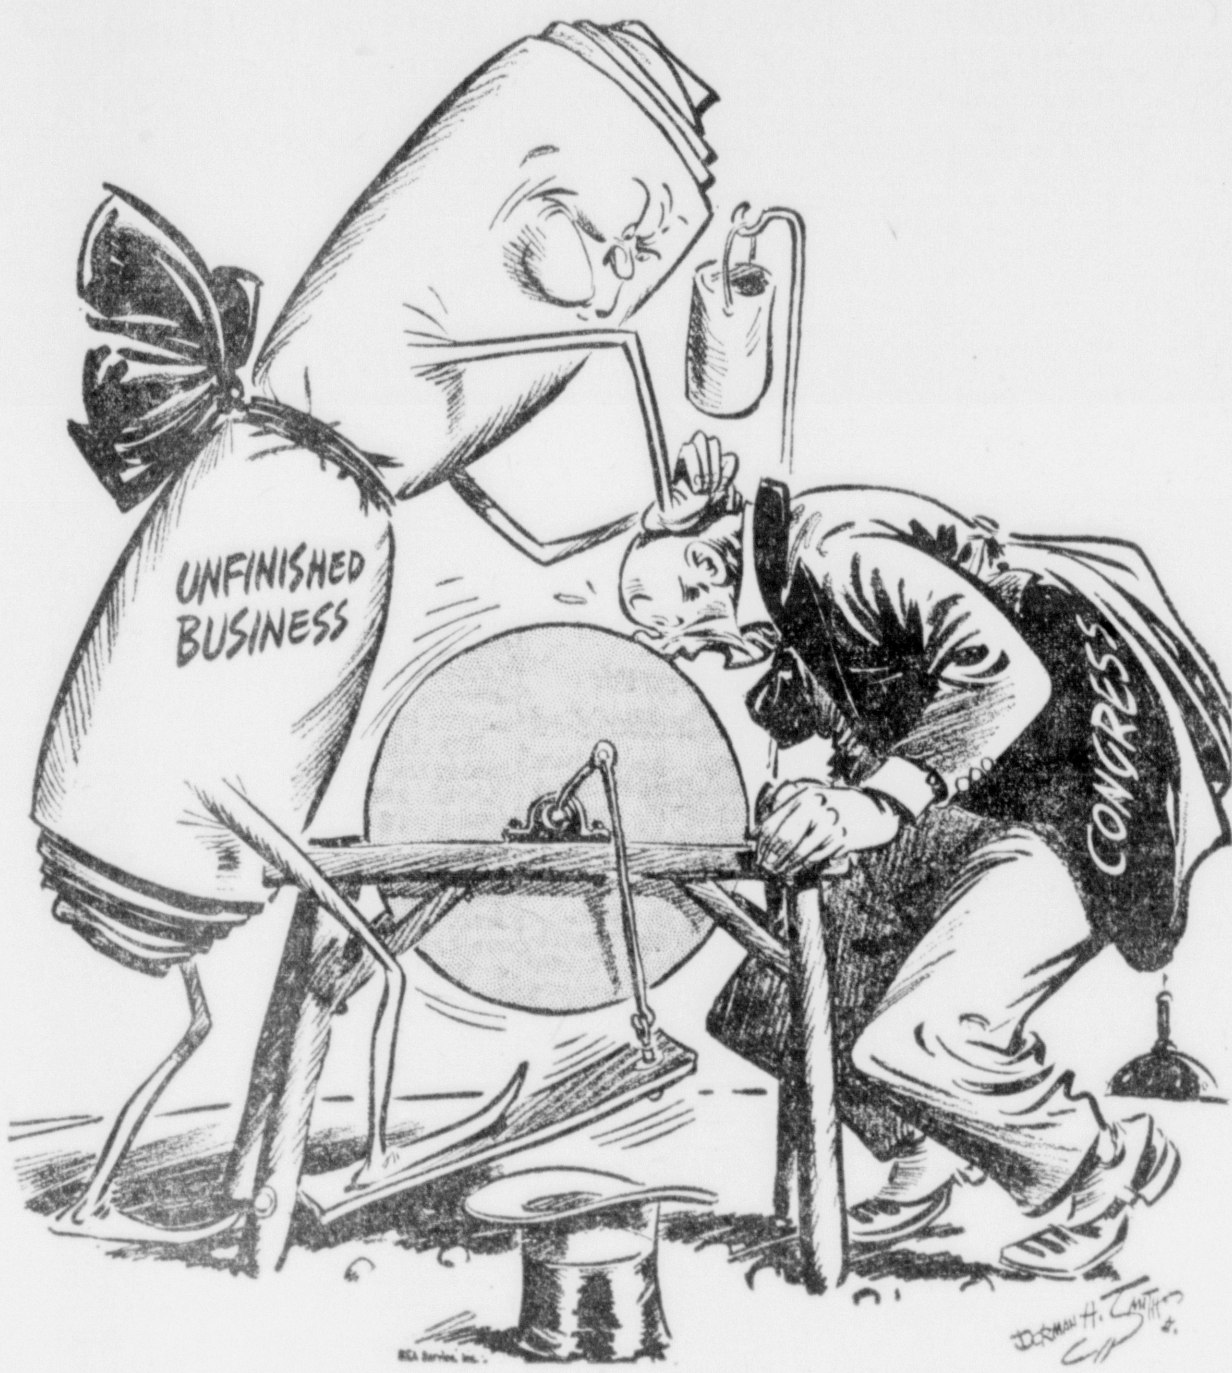

On the other hand, the people of May's district are old-fashioned, God-fearing folk who will not appreciate photographs of "Andy" in the midst of high jinks in New York. In the 1944 election he squeaked through with only a handful of votes. It would be an ironic commentary on our politics if May could exploit the persecution angle in such a way as to return with a larger majority in November.

Feist (sometimes incorrectly spelled "fice") is a word of Anglo-Saxon origin, and literally it has no connection whatever with dogs. However, you'll find "feist" explained on page 830 of Webster's New International Dictionary, Second Edition.

FLYING OFFICER — Richard "Dick" Gearhart of Marquette, field supervisor for the conservation department in the Upper Peninsula, is putting his flying experience to good use. Taking up flying before the war, he entered the Navy and learned the business during World War II, came out of service last February and was immediately in demand to pilot the department's Stinson Voyager 150 which is stationed at Roscommon. The other day Dick piloted the plane back and forth and around Chippewa county for aerial photography purposes.

The department has also purchased a new Republic Seabee amphibious plane for use in the Upper Peninsula, and this will be delivered soon and is reportedly to be stationed at Marquette, regional headquarters of the department. Both planes were tested by Col. Floyd E. Evans, director of the Michigan department of aeronautics, before they were purchased. Both are new postwar models, will be used for scouting forest fires, law enforcement work, and for transportation of personnel. Dick is flying the Stinson as temporary pilot until a permanent pilot is assigned.

SIX BUCKS A POUND—Prices may seem high today, but they have been higher at the close of other wars, notably the Civil War. It is reported from North Adams, Mich., that records in the family Bible of Martin Langston shows he paid $6 a pound for butter, $9.60 a pound for coffee and $14.80 per bushel for potatoes in the 1860's.

CURFEW DOESN'T RING—In any discussion of juvenile delinquency in Escanaba it might be well to recall that folks were more concerned about it a couple years ago than they are today. Or at least that would be the conclusion if you consider that the night-blowing of the curfew was discontinued quite some time ago.

During the war there was fear expressed that youth would run a wild course, and in the fervor of that period even staying out late at night was considered unpatriotic—at least it "did not contribute to the war effort." So that youth would be home, and tucked in bed at a reasonable hour, city councils in Manistiquette, Gladstone, Escanaba and other cities adopted curfew ordinances.

In Escanaba the curfew blew a warning blast at 9:45, and all children 15 and under had to be off the street when it blew again at 10 p. m.—unless they were accompanied by their parents, or were attending some church or school function.

Well, curfew hasn't blown for a long time now. It was noisy and could be heard all over town, and it disturbed some older folks who go to bed long before the youngsters do. The curfew ordinance is probably still on the books but it would take considerable trouble to enforce it, because it included hailing parents as well as youngsters into court for violations.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington — While the entire nation waited for congress to make up its mind on the vital question of price control, the inside fact was that the house conferees angrily walked out of one meeting in protest against the absenteeism of two senators.

One was Majority Leader Alben Barkley of Kentucky who failed to show up at all for one afternoon session and left in the middle of the next day's session for a trip out of town.

Barkley's excuse for the first absence was "important business on the floor." However, when house conferees learned that the business was a silver bill and an equal rights measure, they blew up and disgustedly stalked out of the meeting.

The other absentee was lame-duck George Radcliffe of Maryland. House Chairman Brent Spence of Kentucky sharply criticized the "lack of cooperation" of the two senators, aiming his fire chiefly at Barkley, who had been counted on to spearhead the fight for senate recess on the controversial Taft "guaranteed profits" amendment and the de-control of food products.

"Here we are discussing the economy of the entire nation," caustically remarked another house spokesman. "It seems to me that this is more important than silver or an equal rights bill. We don't produce more than $25,000,000 worth of silver annually."

—TAFT STANDS PAT—

House members walked out after OPA champions talked themselves blue trying to make Bob Taft of Ohio and other senate conferees back down on the guaranteed profits provision and food de-controls. Liberal GOP Senator Charles Tobey of New Hampshire, was expected to stand by the OPA, but he remarked:

"I intend to support the senate bill. I have no other alternative since the senate has voted for it."

Showing up the next day's meeting, Barkley promised better attendance after Spence called him to task for being AWOL.

"We can't get along without you, Alben," said his fellow Kentuckian. "I know you are aware of what is at stake here. We must agree on an OPA bill that the President will sign. I shudder to think of the indescribable train of evils that will result if we don't."

—CALIFORNIA OIL RUSH—

The issue which helped defeat Ed Pauley for undersecretary of navy—tidewater oil lands — is coming up in the senate again, with Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada doing his best to jam the bill through before congress adjourns.

The bill would give the 48 states title to submerged oil lands under the ocean-bed rather than letting the supreme court decide whether they belong to the states or the federal government.

Meanwhile, Attorney General Bob Kenny of California has done some of the most adroit legal stalling in years. He and the justice department have been in a race to see whether he could get the tide-lands oil bill passed by congress before the supreme court. It now looks as if Kenny has won. Here is how he did it: Last winter, when both California and the justice department were to file briefs before the supreme court, Kenny petitioned the court for two months delay. This was granted.

When the two months expired, Kenny filed one of the longest briefs in history. It was three volumes thick and 822 pages long. It is customary to make supreme court briefs what the name implies—brief and to the point.

—CAPITAL CHAFF—

Foreign investors in the USA have started a flight from the dollar. As a result of the senate's OPA action, they figure on real inflation and are selling out their stocks and commodities. Tip-off is the way the Swedish krona, Swiss franc and Canadian dollar all have gone up at the expense of the dollar. . . . One of the country's most interesting veterans' races will take place in Texas this week between Price Daniel, an ex-GI, and Pat Neff, Jr., an ex-maj, both running for attorney general. Daniel resigned as speaker of the Texas legislature to enlist as a private, served overseas, came out a sergeant. Neff, son of a former governor, joined up as a captain, served in the judge advocate general's office in Washington, came out a major. It will be interesting to see whether the major or the sergeant wins out. . . . Senator McKellar of Tennessee, who has been denouncing the CIO and his opponent for being backed by the CIO, found himself very red-faced the other day. He had forgotten that he had written CIO leaders asking for their support.

Here's How Modern Doctors Treat Infantile Paralysis

By DR. HART E. VAN RIPER
Medical Director, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis
Copyright, 1946, Science Service
(First of three articles on modern treatment of infantile paralysis written especially for this newspaper's Science Service.)

Doctors insist that the most important thing for parents to remember about the treatment of infantile paralysis is that it is not a cure. Although modern treatment methods cannot attack the cause of the disease, doctors do promise that a higher percentage of patients will recover without handicaps if modern treatment methods are used.

When a child with infantile paralysis is admitted to a hospital, he is ill, apprehensive about leaving the security of his home and, if he is old enough to understand, badly worried about being left a cripple. The physician's first task is to reassure the child and put him to bed.

Special beds are required for polio cases. Soft, inner springs and mattresses are not used. The child must lie on a firm surface to prevent sagging of weakened muscles. Usually a wooden board is placed under a firm mattress to support the patient's body. At the foot of the bed an upright board is placed with the soles of the feet pressed against it. This foot-board is most important in polio care. It serves two purposes—keeps the bed clothes off the feet, preventing a pull on weakened muscles, and keeps alive the "standing reflex," which patients often subconsciously forget because of the pain associated with the act.

Many deformities can be prevented right from the start by seeing to it that the child assumes a proper position in bed. Strangely enough, the very young child will naturally assume the most relaxed and proper position without supervision. The older child and the adult require assistance in the form of small pillows and rolls underneath knees and back to support weakened muscles. Physicians warn that in this seemingly small matter of proper position many deformities can result if improperly done.

The sick child is isolated on admission, as in the case of any contagious disease. The greatest danger of polio contagion is in the mucus from the nose and throat and from the bowel eliminations, probably before the development of paralysis. Scientists report that the virus of the disease can be recovered from the nose and throat secretions of patients and carriers during the first week of infection and from the stools for as long as three months. If care is observed in preventing contamination from these sources, there is no more danger in caring for a polio patient in a general hospital than in caring for any other type of illness.

The next main consideration is quiet and rest. Nature is the greatest ally physicians have. Too much handling of the patient beyond what is absolutely essential weakens the patient physically and pulls weakened muscles out of shape.

The child with infantile paralysis often suffers from a lack of water and other fluids. He is so ill and apprehensive about pain that he reduces his motions to an absolute minimum. Stretching or raising his hand for a glass of water is a painful effort and he learns to avoid it. Nurses and attendants must constantly offer the child water and other fluids.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is making every effort to overcome the dire shortage of skilled physical therapists so essential in the treatment of the disease. During the past year hundreds of these essential workers have been trained in this profession under a free scholarship program inaugurated by the National Foundation. Despite this added number of workers, more will be required to assure proper medical care for all victims of the disease. In addition to the physical therapy scholarship program, the National Foundation (Polio Emergency Volunteers), Public-spirited men and women can receive a short training course in assisting nurses and physical therapists in the care of polio patients. Most communities in the United States have such training available through their local chapters of the National Foundation.

Arthur C. Elmer, Lansing, chief of the parks and recreation division for the Michigan department of conservation, last night said that he was "impressed with the possibilities of Fayette" as a site for a proposed state park, following a visit to the Garden Peninsula yesterday afternoon.

The state parks chief is on a tour of the Upper Peninsula in company with Glenn Gregg of Marquette, regional supervisor of state parks.

During the past week they have inspected state parks in the U. P. from the recently acquired Porcupine Mountain area in Ontonagon county to the Straits park at St. Ignace. Today they will complete their trip with a visit to the J. W. Wells state park 30 miles south of Escanaba.

The Fayette recreation area, now owned by Fred Van Remortel, has been recommended to the state as a park site by the Delta county board of supervisors, the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, and local civic and fraternal organizations. The site includes one of the finest deepwater small boat harbors on the Great Lakes, and acquisition of the property by the state has been endorsed by the Lake Michigan Yachting association.

Today's Recipes

Canned Blueberries

Clean and wash berries, and pack into four pint jars, which are clean and hot.

Make syrup from two cups of sugar and two and one-half cups of water. Bring to a good boil, and pour over berries.

Seal jars tight, and place them in a kettle or pail, with a cloth in the bottom. Pour boiling water around the jars, slowly so they will not break, until jars are covered. Wrap a blanket around the kettle or pail, and let stand until jars are cold. (Approximately 24 hours.)

Berries will be firm and fresh-tasting, excellent for pies. This method is equally good for raspberries, cherries, strawberries, and other fruits.

156,000 Telephones Installed in Michigan in 6 Months...

But 100,000 families are still waiting

Severe shortages of lead, copper and other materials which go into telephone equipment have upset our time-table for clearing up waiting lists.

Even so, during the first half of this year, Michigan Bell

• Installed new telephones at the fastest rate in its history—an average of 26,000 per month.

• But also received new orders at the fastest rate in history—an average of 27,000 applications per month.

• Added 340,000 miles of wire and installed enough additional central office switching equipment to serve 50,000 new customers.

• Cleared waiting lists in 27 Michigan Bell exchanges.

As the second half of 1946 gets under way, there are still 100,000 families waiting for telephones. Of these, 49,000 have placed their orders since the first of the year.

We still have to expand our facilities in 200 exchanges to give service to everyone who has ordered a telephone.

We now hope that most of the orders for service received before January 1, 1946, can be filled by the end of the year. In some areas, of course, we expect to complete many orders received this year, but it may be late 1947 before we can return to a "ready-to-serve" basis everywhere.

Meanwhile, we are loading our present equipment far beyond its normal capacity, to shorten the wait for as many folks as possible. This may affect the quality of service for the time being. But normal service will return as we install the needed lines and equipment.

Waiting applicants can be certain that we are just as anxious as they are to see their orders filled at the earliest possible date.

ADOPT BUDGET FOR RED CROSS

$11,000 Is Temporarily Approved; Changes In Staff Announced

An annual budget of approximately $11,000 was temporarily approved by the executive board of the Delta County Chapter, American Red Cross, at a recent meeting, it was announced yesterday. One advancement and one change in volunteer staff personnel were also announced.

The budget was unanimously accepted by the executive board after careful consideration of the budget report prepared by committee chairman and Thaxter Shaw, chapter treasurer.

Expenditures in the budget covers the full participation in Red Cross activities and provide funds for a continuation of the present program and all phases of Red Cross work as carried on throughout Delta county.

A small reserve to meet emergencies remains in the treasury which was not budgeted under any department but to be held in case of need by any department chairman, it was announced.

Executive Secretary
Miss Victoria Mroczkowski, acting executive secretary of the Delta County chapter of the American Red Cross for the past four months was appointed executive secretary of the chapter. She has been in an official capacity with the chapter for the past three years and fully familiar with all phases of Red Cross work and is fully qualified to assume this important position in chapter work.

The vacancy was created by the resignation of Mrs. Vera Clairmont, who served the chapter as its first full time executive secretary for about two years. Miss Mroczkowski will attend a training school for executive secretaries to be held in St. Louis in September the board also stated.

Home Service
Sam R. Wickman, councilman and former mayor, yesterday was appointed home service chairman of the Delta county chapter of the American Red Cross at a meeting of the executive board held in the chapter offices.

Wickman takes over the duties of home service chairman filled by Guy Flanders during the war emergency period and will operate the department with a complete staff to meet the needs of servicemen and their families, veterans and to fill requests from military sources. Most of the present Red Cross activities center around the home service department at present with many cases needing consulting, guidance, claims filed for pensions and other government allowances, assistance with all phases of the GI bill and many other items pertaining to the complete service the chapter can offer to all who need assistance in any way, it was stated.

Wickman will take over his duties as soon as the chapter finds new quarters as it is necessary to move from their present location by the first of August.

Foreign Forest Experts Study Wood Utilization

Wood utilization and logging operations as practiced in the United States are the subject of study by two foresters from foreign countries who were in Escanaba yesterday.

They are T. K. Mirchandani, conservator of forests for Bombay Province, India, and Arnost Travnik, of Bratislava, Czechoslovakia. They arrived in Escanaba Monday night on the start of a two-week tour of forests and forest industries which will take them through most of the Lakes States.

Will Visit Plants
In company with H. Basil Wales of the U. S. Forest Service regional office at Milwaukee, they are observing cutting and planting operations in the Upper Peninsula and Northern Wisconsin and will visit lumber, paper, and wood-working plants in the same area. They will also visit the Lakes States Forest Experiment station at St. Paul, Minn., and the University of Minnesota forestry school.

"What the lumbering industry in India needs is more machinery—big machinery," said Mirchandani. "I am here on a dual job. To see the big tractors and other equipment and how they operate, and determine what we need." Smiling, Mirchandani added, "the manufacturers tell me there will be no deliveries for two years."

Mirchandani is in charge of forest engineering and development on the timberlands of the Bombay Province, is spending two months in the United States studying logging, sawmilling, and lumbering. After a tour of the Northwest he will visit Canada to observe similar operations in British Columbia. His visit to the United States will conclude after a trip to Washington, D. C., and to New York.

First Visit to U. S.
Neither Travnik nor Mirchandani have been in the United States before. Travnik is in this country under an UNRRA fellowship and will be here through the summer and fall, expects to return to his homeland before Christmas.

Travnik is making a six-month study of new developments in wood technology and their industrial application. On his return to Czechoslovakia he will initiate a research institute to serve wood-working industries of that country.

In Czechoslovakia, Travnik said, there is almost complete utilization of wood from the forests. Even the twigs and branches are saved for fuel. This contrasts with wood utilization in this country, which Wales said was less than 50 per cent of each tree. Economic factors, including larger forest acreage and less population, make complete utilization impractical in this country.

Michandani said that one of the problems in India is the utilization of low-grade and inferior woods. The teak forests have been overcut and better management will have to be practiced before they can be restored.

India Needs Industries
He reported that India must be industrialized, and that this movement is receiving impetus through the development of low-cost electric power. The manufacture of electric appliances is slow, however, and imported appliances are not built for the same voltage as that supplied in India.

After inspecting the Birds Eye Veneer company in Escanaba yesterday morning, the group went to Gladstone where they visited the Northwestern Coopers plant. The Bay de Noquet company mill at Nahma, the Manistique Paper company, and the Hiawatha National Forest were inspected yesterday also. Today they will visit the Munising Paper company and the Dukes Experimental station.

Tomorrow's tour will take them to Marquette where they will inspect the Dow Chemical plant, and from there they will go to Ontonagon and Ironwood. After visiting other woodworking and forestry projects in Northern Wisconsin they will end their tour in this area at University of Minnesota forestry school.

Pay Gasoline Taxes To Modernize Roads

By Science Service
Spokane, Wash., July 23.—From $16,000,000,000 to $20,000,000,000 will be required to modernize the present highway system to accommodate present traffic, Charles Upham of the American Road Builders' Association told the American Society of Civil Engineers here today.

The highway appropriation for 1946 should approximate $750,000,000, and reach $2,000,000,000 by 1949, and then continue at that level, he believes. It would be financed by gasoline and other taxes paid by highway users.

"In the years before the war the highway users paid into the government agencies in highway use taxes approximately $2,240,000,000 per year," he stated. "With the additional ten to fifteen million new cars coming on the highways and the pent up desire of everyone to get out on the road again, the gasoline taxes collected by the state and federal governments would amply finance the cost of all new highway construction if it were all used for that purpose."

A heavy road building program is needed also to keep general economical conditions at a high level. For every dollar spent in road construction by modern methods, three dollars worth of business results, he asserted. For every man employed on the road building job, 1.7 are employed in the industries that furnish materials and equipment. The full public construction program, including roads, buildings and other projects, should be adjusted, Mr. Upham said, to keep the total construction always above 12% of the national income. "During the '20's, full employment and prosperous conditions existed when construction volume exceeded 12% of the national income. Unemployment occurred when the volume went below this figure."

Legion Juniors Lose To Bay City

Munising.—The American Legion junior league team of Munising took a thrashing from the Bay City team in Saturday morning's game of the zone tournament at Bay City, losing the game 25-1. The boys returned home late Saturday evening.

They had won the first game against Sheboygan, played Friday afternoon, which put them in the final Saturday, but lost to a team made up of boys all 17 years old. The junior league Legion team of Munising has boys ranging from 14 to 17 years old on the squad. It was a well fought game but those who witnessed it, said the difference in ages was a big factor in losing.

All members of the Bay City team have been playing baseball together for the past three years, and this is the first year the Munising team was organized, which was another reason the other team was superior.

The one run made was in the ninth inning. Three pitchers were used but the Bay City team just couldn't be stopped and scored 25 runs.

Frank Flemming, American Legion recreational director, said that a meeting of the following teams: Moose, VFW's, KC's, and Fords, will be held at the city playground at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday evening. Purpose of the meeting is to discuss plans for a tournament between the four teams.

The tournament will be played off the first part of August, with tentative plans for the championship game to be played on VJ day, August 14.

Quoting the scriptures, many times he used Christ's work as proof of his basis of thought. He stressed the fact that happiness is a by-product and cannot be purchased and that the unselfish person is the only one that will find happiness.

He also pointed out that every action has a corresponding reaction and showed it through physics, chemistry and economic calculations. Dr. Jones is editor of the regular department: "Peeps at Things to Come" of The Rotarian, the club magazine.

Those who were guests at Tuesday noon's Rotary meeting were: James Berkeley, student pastor of the St. John's Episcopal church, and Howard Morgan of the Munising paper mill, who introduced the speaker. Local Police Situation
Gets Airing At Monday
Meeting Of City Dads

Instruction to assume full command of the city police department with the assurance that the council will frown on interference, was given Chief of Police Roy Anderson by Mayor William Berger at Monday evening's session of the city council.

This instruction came as a result of a complaint made at the meeting by the police chief that his department at present is in a disorganized state and that he believes this whole unsatisfactory condition is due, largely, to a policy pursued by the last city manager who, he said, asserted authority in matters which Anderson said he thought should be vested solely in the chief of police.

This duplication of supervision, Anderson asserted, had undermined his authority to direct the police force and as a result the efficiency of the force is far from what it should be.

Cited as an example of this purported interference was the claim that Charles D. Manson, as city manager, instructed Anderson that city police should no longer walk their beats. The practice, Anderson said he was told, was out-moded. Anderson said his views did not harmonize with Manson in the matter, but he complied. He stated also that the city manager told him to stay away from council meetings.

Sheahan Warns

This matter, which was somewhat in the nature of a bombshell, was started off by William J. Sheahan, county prosecutor, who served notice that the matter of false arrests should be seriously considered by the city council. He stated that a number of arrests that could not be legally prosecuted had been made by the city police and that when he had refused to act his office had been criticized. He declared that he will not countenance any false arrests in the future and that the officer responsible for such action will be prosecuted.

Sheahan added that the chief of police should have the privilege of saying who his subordinates should be.

An adjourned meeting of the council will be held Thursday evening with members of the police force instructed to be present. At that time, it was stated at Monday's meeting, they will be informed that hereafter they must take their official orders solely from the chief of police.

Many Manager Applications
Several more applications for the office of city manager were presented on Monday evening's meeting, making a total of twelve who have, thus far, asked to be considered.

Among those applying is P. H. Beauvais, present city manager at Alma, who was manager here before Manson. Accompanying his application and references was a petition signed by 130 local residents asking that he be appointed. The petitions were presented by William Sellman, a member of the council.

Only one applicant made reference to the matter of salary wanted. He asked $3,500 a year.

The council members indicated that they would thoroughly investigate the qualifications of every candidate before coming to a decision.

The old police car, which was recently replaced by a new sedan, was sold to the highest bidder at the council meeting. Sealed bids were opened and sale was awarded to Walter Linderoth. His offer was $503.

Bass On Angle Worm

William F. Laux, 110 Chippewa avenue, wasn't altogether sure as to what manner of fish it was that he pulled out of the Manistique river last Sunday afternoon, but it fought like a bass and that is what it proved to be—a white bass, seldom caught in these parts.

Not only was it an uncommon fish but it was a beauty. It was 17 inches in length, 13½ inches around the middle and weighed two pounds and fourteen ounces. He used angle worms for bait.

He has entered it in the Daily Press fishing contest.

Colleges Aim Punch At Athletic Subsidies

BY JERRY LISK
Chicago, July 23 (AP)—Twenty of the nation's college conferences today threw a hay-maker at campus athletic commercialism, recommending sharp restrictions on financial aid and recruiting of athletes, but it remained to be seen whether it would hit the mark.

TONY ZALE OUT WITH RIB PAIN

Tussle With Graziano Is Scratched; Sept. 26 Is New Date

BY SID FEDER
New York, July 23 (AP)—Middleweight champion Tony Zale came up with a $300,000 ache in his ribs today that was so painful he had to postpone his title tussle with Rocky Graziano from this Thursday until September 26 in Yankee stadium.

The ailment was variously described as inter-osteal neuritis and inter-costal myositis, all of which translates to a severe ache in the muscles somewhere between the sixth and tenth ribs on the left side. With $200,000 already in the cash register and $300,000 or more expected by next time, it also was regarded by promoter Mike Jacobs and the two principals as a pronounced pain in the pocket-book.

Zale first noticed the pain last Saturday at his training camp in Pompton Lakes, but after applying heat pads he went to bed and slept it off. Sunday, while doing his exercises, it came back again, more sharply. His manager, partner, Sam Pian and Art Winch, called in their old friend, Dr. John O'Connell of Chicago, who diagnosed it as inter-osteal neuritis.

When Tony was no better at daybreak the fight was scratched. Tony will head home to Gary, Ind., and probably spend a few days in a hospital.

dangerous stage, proposed to the National Collegiate Athletic Association council:

1. That "athletes should not be paid, by direct or indirect means, because of athletic abilities."

2. That athletic officials should not beat the bushes for prospective college stars.

The joker in the apparent "love-feast" was that the recommendations had to be approved by the individual membership of the N.C.A.A.

If individual conferences, some of which frankly dole financial aid to athletes because they are good halfbacks or basketball centers, fail to see eye-to-eye with the new principles the collegiate realm may be divided into two camps.

Karl Leib, Iowa's Western Conference faculty representative and chairman of the meeting, predicted that such a "cleavage" would produce sanctions by "amateur-minded" schools, principally through playing schedule boycotts.

Slight loopholes were left in the two dictums voiced by the gathering. On the basis of need, athletes may receive financial aid for tuition, but not necessarily because they are athletes. In clamping down on recruiting, the group said athletic officials should not solicit prospective athletes "outside the campus boundaries," but added that this did not mean they could not circulate publicly "in the general educational interests" of their institutions.

Furthermore, the proposal said athletic staffs would not be prohibited from "directing any inquiring individual to the regular institutional sources of information regarding admissions, financial aids and employment opportunities."

COURSE RECORD IS SET BY BABE

Field Of 57 Outclassed In Tam O'Shanter All-American

BY SKIPPER PATRICK
Chicago, July 23 (AP)—Mildred Diddrickson, Zaharias of Denver, Colo., outclassed a field of 57 contestants today and posted a course record shattering 6 under par 70 in qualifying for the All-American golf tournament Thursday.

Texas-born "Babe" toured Tam O'Shanter's picturesque tournament course two strokes under the record set by Patty Berg, Minneapolis, in 1943. Her pair of 35's for the 6,395-yard distance for women was nine strokes better than runner-up Ann Casey of Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., and Mason City, Ia.

Followed over the last three holes by the largest gallery of the day, Mrs. Zaharias passed up a $500 bonus for her record performance in order to retain her amateur standing.

Seven birdies for women's standards and three for the men's figures were posted on the Zaharias card.

Phyllis Otto, Atlantic, Ia., who won the national intercollegiate crown last week, was grouped with Mary Mezel, Portland, Ore., pro, and Agnes Wal, Menominee, Mich., at 80. Next in line were Dot Kietly, Los Angeles, 81, and Georgia Tainter Goff, Fargo, N. D., 82.

Miss Mezel and Helen Dettweiler, Indio, Calif., who failed to qualify with a 92, were the only professionals in the field of 57 today.

Miss Berg, Betty Jameson, national champion from San Antonio, Tex., and Betty Hicks, Clearmont, Calif., the 1944 titlist, were not required to qualify.

Sixty of some 90 men professionals are scheduled to qualify tomorrow.

Negaunee still has a postponed game to make up at Niagara. The Iron Kings, still battling for a playoff position, were scheduled to meet Niagara in a makeup game at Kingsford last night. Then they face Crystal Falls and Channing and also have a makeup game still to be played at Iron River.

In his letter to superintendents and principals of Upper Peninsula high schools regarding the all-star football game at Negaunee August 17, Oscar Vassberg, director of the event, pleaded: "I am asking you as individuals that if you cannot see fit to lend your support, to at least refrain from trying to prevent its successful completion." This is the crux of the controversy with the MHSAA, which is exerting its influence on U.P. school authorities to toss a monkey wrench into the all-star game.

Actual cost of conducting a softball program at the lighted field is approximately $15 per night, which does not include any charge for use of facilities. The expense list includes payment to ticket sellers and takers, ground-keeper, umpires, electricity and softballs. Neither does the $15 figure include the federal tax which must be paid from the receipts, which figures at approximately 17% of the gross. Receipts in excess of operating expenses will be used to provide additional softball facilities in the community.

The American Legion Junior baseball program in the Upper Peninsula will be evaluated for the 1947 season. Instead of the two districts now established, patterned after the congressional apportionment, there will be five or six zones in the peninsula, each with a commissioner. Leagues will be formed within each of the respective zones. An Upper Peninsula championship will be played and the winner will go direct to the state finals at Flint. All Legion posts will be asked to support the program next year. Such support has been spotty this season.

Hit and Miss—Talk about an all-star softball program in Escanaba is growing . . . and there are definite signs that such an event will be held . . . as soon as details can be arranged. . . . Tom Harmon's contract with the Los Angeles Rams is reported to line his pocketbook to the extent of about $200,000 a year. He will also conduct a twice-a-week sports broadcast.

Miss Berg, Betty Jameson, national champion from San Antonio, Tex., and Betty Hicks, Clearmont, Calif., the 1944 titlist, were not required to qualify.

Sixty of some 90 men professionals are scheduled to qualify tomorrow.

TIGERS THRASH SENATORS, 6-1

Newhouser One Notch From 20th Victory Of The Season

Detroit, July 23 (AP)—Hal Newhouser, Detroit's stellar pitching ace, moved within one notch of his third straight season as a 20-game winner by whipping the Washington Senators 6 to 1 today for his 19th victory of the season against three losses.

Newhouser, scoring his seventh successive triumph by scattering five hits, thus beat the Nats for the 15th time in his last 16 appearances against them.

The Tiger triumph was scored at the expense of an old nemesis, Emil (Duke) Leonard, who had been out with a sore arm. Leonard virtually beat himself with his elusive knuckleball which twice got away from Catcher Al Evans for passed balls permitting two Tigers to score. Two more runs crossed the plate in the eighth inning on Evans' throw past third base that rolled all the way to the left field corner.

Three of Detroit's runs were earned, however, as George Kell banged out three singles and Eddie Lake and Doc Cramer each hit safely today.

Coan Gets Around
Newhouser lost a chance for his fifth shutout of the year when Gil Coan bunted in the eighth and was safe on Hank Greenberg's error, took second on a wild pitch and scored on Buddy Lewis' double.

Prior to today Leonard had whipped Detroit seven times while losing to the Tigers but once since September, 1944.

Altogether the Tigers put together 11 hits, nine of them off Leonard before Dutch was removed for a pinch-hitter in the eighth. The last two Detroit runs were charged against Marino Pieretti.

A crowd of 18,523 fans turned out to watch Newhouser oppose Leonard but the anticipated duel failed to develop.

Successive singles by Newhouser, Lake and Kell in the third inning, a passed ball and an infield out put the Tigers out front 2-0 and another Detroit run on singles by Lake and Kell, Cramer's walk and a second passed ball made to 3-0 in the fifth.

Gerry Priddy's error on Lake's grounder helped the Tigers to their fourth run off Leonard in the seventh. Lewis raced into right field four territory to get Kell's foul fly for the second out but Cramer bled a single over third and Greenberg singled to center to score Lake from second.

Jim Outlaw's walk and Jimmy Bloodworth's single put men on first and third in the Tiger eighth off Pieretti and when Pieretti Tebbets dumped a bunt in front of the plate Evans threw wildly trying to force Outlaw at third and both Outlaw and Bloodworth scored.

Now six full games ahead of fourth place Washington, the Tigers named Paul (Dizzy) Trout to oppose Louis (Boo) Newsom tomorrow in the second game of the series.

HEWETT'S WIN, 14-7
Hewett's Grocery defeated the Rose Park Store by a score of 14-7 yesterday at the Ludington Park diamond.

Batteries: Hewitt—St. Jacques and Auger; Rose Park—Courneene and Finstrom.

OBERG'S 19, CHAMPS 8.
Laviolette and Abrahamson; Prokos, Baldwin, Chapek and Farrell.

VFW BEATS LARMAY'S
The VFW defeated Larmay's 14 to 5 in a game played last night. The winners had 14 runs, 12 hits and 4 errors while the losers had 5 runs, 6 hits and 2 errors.

Batteries were: VFW, Kositzke and Larson; Larmay's, Brayak and Olson.

Junior Leaguers Will Play Cubs

Junior baseball players of the 14 to 17 age group are asked to report at the City diamond Friday evening for an exhibition game with the Escanaba Cubs. The junior players will report at six o'clock.

Director Jerome Deloria will select outstanding players in the junior league to form a team to play the Cubs and substitutes also will get a chance to get into action.

CENTERS JOIN ALLSTARS
Chicago, July 23 (AP)—Four centers—Milo Silovich of Marquette, George Bujan of Illinois, Bill Blackburn of Rice and Felto Perrett of Tulsa—will join the college all-star squad when it opens practice at Northwestern Aug. 4 for the annual all-star football game in Soldiers' Field Aug. 23.

Changes In ROTC Announced At Tech

Houghton—Lt. Col. William Shoemaker, professor of military science and tactics at the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, has received from the War department announcement of half a dozen major changes in the operation of the Reserve Officers Training Corps. The new policies and procedures go into effect this fall term insofar as existing laws and appropriations permit. Some of the recommendations are now before Congress, which is expected to approve them.

Two years' credit for ROTC will be given for a year of active duty in the armed forces.

Elementary course students will receive commutation value of ration, whereas they receive no monetary allowance at present. Advanced students who now receive 66 cents a day will receive commutation of ration plus $1.25 a day for quarters and uniforms.

The summer camp period will be extended from the present six weeks to eight.

GAMES TODAY
New York, July 23 (AP)—Probable pitchers for tomorrow's major league games (won and lost records in parentheses):

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Chicago at Brooklyn (night)—Wyse (10-8) vs Gregg (2-1).
St. Louis at New York (night)—Brazle (2-7) or Barrett (3-2) vs Koslo (10-9).

Philadelphia at Cleveland—Harris (2-5) vs Feller (17-6).
Washington at Detroit—Newsom (6-8) vs Trout (8-6).

Perronville Will Play Escanaba Bears Tonight

The inevitable rain, which has caused the Escanaba Bears more damage this season than all of the opposition ball clubs combined, washed out the exhibition game last night between the Bears and Perronville's sharp Cloverland league entry, but the game will be played this evening at 6:30 o'clock at the City diamond.

Perronville added to its laurels Sunday by walloping Perronville, 12 to 4. The victory put Perronville in a virtual first place tie with Bark River for the Cloverland championship but Bark River, with a 6-1 record, holds the percentage edge over Perronville's 7-2 record.

Manager Schwalbach indicated that there has been no change in his selection of Jack Beck to mount the hill for the Bears in the seven-inning exhibition affair with Perronville tonight.

RED SOX UPSET IN CHICAGO, 7-1
Chicago, July 23 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, piling up five runs in the first inning, upset the Boston Red Sox 7 to 1 tonight before a crowd of 49,376, largest ever to witness a single game contest in Chicago.

Largest throng to pack Comiskey Park was 52,494 in a Sunday double-header with the Yankees in 1933.

The White Sox barrage knocked Bill Zuber out in the opening inning to settle the issue long before John Rigney could complete a five hit performance in his first start since June 6. Rigney had been out with a sore arm.

Home run king and league leading batter, Ted Williams, went hitless. The Red Sox gained their only run of Rigney in the seventh on singles by York and Russell and Hal Wagner's long fly.

Luke Appling was the batting star of the contest. With two doubles and a single.

LEADERS DROP 1 TO 6 POINTS
BY VICTOR EUBANK
New York, July 23 (AP)—One of the worst reactions of the year hit the stock market today and, on relatively heavy selling, leaders dropped 1 to 6 points or so, a number to 1946 lows, before a little support stemmed the slide.

Brokers could find nothing outstanding in the news to blame for the slump. Dealings then slowed. While extreme losses were limited to many cases at the close, numerous issues finished at or around the day's bottom.

Transfers of 1,600 shares compared with 600 Monday and were the largest since May 29.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off 2.3 points at 74.4, widest dip since February 25. It was among the broadest markets

August Is Time For Vacation In Upper Peninsula

BY FERN BERRY

August is a month for vacationing in Upper Michigan. The mosquito and no-see-um horde has started to thin out a bit, and the countryside is at its best. The country roads are grown high with grass and flowers, sweet clover, yellow, daisies, wild blue chickory, wild sunflowers, toad-flax and many another bright bloom. The red-berried elder and the mountain ash fruit reddens in the brightness of the August sun. The bittern and the blue heron stand at attention in the bayous and lake shallows, and the bird families are growing up and leaving the nest while their elder brothers and sisters are almost as large as the parent birds.

Bear cubs, fawns, porcupine babies, young woodchucks, rabbits, coyotes and fox dash into the tall grass as you walk or drive the country lanes. Mamma Bruin is out with her young to eat of the wild fruits, and she won't hurt you if you don't get too friendly with her babies.

The white birches gleam among the green of the pines and the June or serviceberry trees are laden with the richness of their sweet fruit. The blueberry areas becomes communities of working people. Fish are sulking a bit in the lakes, but you may be able to get some good catches of perch and bluegills and, if you are an early riser, bass, too.

Sweetfern and pine fragrance drift from lake to lake. The air is clear and sparkling and the nights are cool and refreshing. The folks are friendly and helpful—Yes, you will enjoy a vacation in Upper Michigan whether it be a trip to the copper country, the porcupine mountains or just a vacation of traveling around to see the

USE OF ASPEN IS INCREASING

Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin Have Big Supply

Aspen has a chance of becoming one of the most valuable sources of raw material for Lake States wood-using industries, according to a report based on a study made by Zigmund A. Zasada and W. A. Klunder of the U. S. Forest Service.

The report points out that recent estimates made by the Lake States Forest Experiment Station show that the aspen type occupies 20,794,000 acres in the Lake States. By states it is distributed as follows: Minnesota, 7,838,000 acres; Wisconsin, 6,479,000 and Michigan, 6,477,000. This represents over 37 per cent of the total forest land area in the three states.

The merchantable volume of aspen saw timber in trees over nine inches diameter breast high was estimated in 1945 to total roughly six and one-half billion board feet. In addition, there are approximately 17 million cords of high-grade pulpwood and 26 million cords of wood, which under generally recognized utilization standards and production costs is not suitable for present-day use.

Best In Minnesota

Of the three lake states, Minnesota produces the best aspen. About one-half of the present usable volume in the Lake States is located here. This state no doubt will continue to be the largest supplier of aspen lumber and will produce most of the high-grade material needed by users, such as furniture, veneer and box industries. Although Wisconsin does not produce on the average as good quality aspen as Minnesota, it provides a better market because of the large number of pulp mills and other wood-using industries within its boundaries. To date Michigan wood-using industries have not attempted to use aspen in large quantities.

According to the report, the best possibilities for large scale utilization of aspen are in the pulpwood field. The prospect of a serious shortage of wood pulp during the war gave aspen its greatest impetus for this market. Many pulp mills came to rely on it as a local source of wood to augment their more distant and dwindling supplies of spruce and balsam.

Good For Excelsior

Aspen, because of its toughness, light color, light weight, and freedom from odor, makes an excellent excelsior wood. In years past, basswood was the principal species used for this purpose, but because of scarcity and high prices aspen is rapidly replacing it.

The largest present-day use of aspen lumber is in the manufacture of boxes and crating. It is a good all-around wood for box material because it is light in weight and relatively tough. It is an excellent material for containers, giving it a clear appearance.

In Michigan, aspen stands an excellent chance of being used as fruit and vegetable containers in amounts heretofore not considered possible. Fruit producers in particular feel that new and distant markets will require a container which will stand handling and shipping better than the conventional basket. This new container may be a veneered aspen strip-bound box.

Furniture manufacturers believe aspen can be used in their industry for plywood cores, shelving, backs, dust separators, juvenile and painted furniture. Also some concerns believe it can be used satisfactorily for venetian blinds. One large manufacturing concern in Wisconsin is now using large volumes of aspen as a core stock for doors and paneling.

During the war, railroads expanded their use of aspen for ties. In Minnesota, there is one factory which uses aspen for match sticks. For use in matches, large diameter clear stock is required since in the manufacturing process the material is first cut into veneer. Some use has been made of aspen for toys and novelties.

In the last ten years, the report continues, aspen has gained entrance to many fields of use and with intelligent guidance, this trend can increase. The drain will likely be heaviest on the limited quantity of high-grade material. To encourage its use, cooperative efforts are necessary to develop low cost and profitable production methods. High quality aspen, suitable for furniture and wood working use, will command higher prices. This, of necessity, will require that aspen be graded and treated like high-quality hardwoods. To meet this standard, the practice of making balm of Gilead, cottonwood, and low-quality basswood, as aspen, must be abandoned. To assure maximum use and proper forest management of our present aspen stands, timber owners and industry will have to give serious consideration to integrated utilization. Certain grades of aspen now cut and used in boxes, pulp and crating are far more valuable as veneer bolts or furniture and interior trim lumber.
